ABSTRACT

The project is developed for the management of projects in AMTRON. It is a web based development, implemented on Windows platform. The web server is Apache; the database server is MySQL; the script languages I used are PHP and JavaScript. Those are all open sources and we can get them for free from internet.

The final product has a nice interface, a well-designed database. It is easy to use and maintain.

I did the design, implementation and test all by myself. This report records all the things I did for the project in a software engineering way.
