

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Writing an acknowledgement is a tricky process for it involves acknowledging all those people who have directly or indirectly helped in this long period of research. The names are many and memory often fails in the process of recapitulating all the help received over the years. I would first like to express my heartiest thanks to my Supervisor Professor Prasanta Kumar Das for his whole hearted guidance, support and infinite patience throughout the course of this research. This thesis would not have been complete without his ability to accept my ineptitude. His words have been encouraging in the sense that he has urged me on to complete the work without being at all tyrannical and authoritarian.

I express my sincere gratitude to all the faculty members of the Department of English and Foreign Languages, Tezpur University, for their valuable advice, suggestions and kind support in their own special ways.

I also offer my special thanks to the staff of Sahitya Akademi, New Delhi for their kind help during the course of my various visits.

On a more personal note, I am profoundly indebted to my parents for their constant emotional support and care throughout this work. They have acted as stand-in parents for my daughter so that I could complete my work. Without them, probably, I would have never been writing this acknowledgement. I have no words to appreciate the unstinted support and inspiration from my husband Shamim who bore my mood swings and irregularities despite which he encouraged me to go on with my work. I have often shirked my responsibilities as a daughter and wife throughout this long period of research and all three of you have stood by me as my guardian angels.

There have been various colleagues who have supported me, even doing my share of official responsibility so that I could concentrate on my work. The names are numerous to account for now but rest assured their help will always be remembered. I would specially like to thank the librarian of M.D.K.G. College, Jadav Jyoti Saikia, who initiated me to Inlibnet which went a long way in providing me with immense resources for my research.

I would also like to thank various students of mine who have helped me in small and large ways throughout this period. And I would like to remember here my friends Krisha and Angana whose conversations have helped me find meaning in chaos.

My daughter Samiya has missed me often because I could not devote my full time to her. She is too young to understand what research is all about but I dedicate this piece of work to her and to my father who has often reminded me that he could not give me much except my education. This one is for you “Bajan” because you have given me everything including my life.
