

Acknowledgement

Over the last five years of my Ph.D. time at Tezpur University, I have learned many things not only about science and academics, but also about the life, the truth and the faith. I believe words cannot express how grateful I am to the people supporting me in many ways during my Ph.D. years and I would like to acknowledge them as this thesis is possible only because of them.

At first, I would like to thank to almighty for giving me strength to complete this step.

First of all, I would like to thank my respected mentor and supervisor, Prof. Ramesh Ch. Deka for all the support and guidance throughout the years. He gave me many opportunities, which were very important to build up my academic career, and he was always supportive whenever I proposed new research topics or brought some problems of ongoing study. It would have not been possible for me to bring out this thesis without his help and constant encouragement throughout the research work.

I am also very much grateful to my doctoral committee members Prof. A. J. Thakur Sir and Dr. Ruli Bora Madam for their suggestions and discussions. I am also very grateful to all the faculty members of Department of Chemical Sciences for their help and suggestions. Special thanks also go to office staff, Chemical Sciences Department.
