ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This dissertation owes substantially to Professor Bijay K. Danta, my supervisor. Besides being thoroughly involved through his patient reading of the chapter drafts and inputs thereafter, he hasn't had an off-day all these years. He has attended my calls, replied to my mails, always with some note of encouragement to drive away lockdown blues that coincided with the thesis writing stage, all while being the HoD and attending hundred other engagements.

My gratitude to Prof. Farheena Danta, my teacher at the department, who has been an important presence during the entire period with her unconditional support.

This thesis is the result of my work carried out with a UGC Junior Research Fellowship (later Senior Research Fellowship). I would like to thank the UGC for the grant and the Tezpur University authorities for the support. I worked as a Project Fellow for a year preceding my PhD years for the UGC-DRS Project (Phase II) at the department of English, Tezpur University. My utmost gratitude to the coordinators of the project (Prof. Prasanta Kr. Das and Prof. Bijay K. Danta), for actively involving me in all the conferences and workshops. The project put together a small but substantial library which has been so important to my research work.

I would like to thank Ed Pavlić, who generously shared his work on James Baldwin and Ariella Aïsha Azoulay, who shared her work on photography at the drop of an e-mail! I recall fondly my interactions with art historian Amy Helene Kirschke who passed away on November, 2021 but whose work and kindness I will treasure and admire for a lifetime.

I thank my friends at department office, Bhaskar Bhattarai, Hemen Das and later, Jayanta Gogoi for making our lives easier. The Central Library and its staff have also provided me with all necessary support in this important work. A note of gratitude to fellow doctoral students, particularly Smriti, Joyee, Jayati, Saynaz, Gayatri, Palash, Ashamoni for their warm and meaningful company through good and bad days. The thesis exists in a tangible form, all thanks to careful handling and printing by Sonu, Monu and Manoj at Sonu Computers.

My gratitude to Baishali, Lata, Labiba and Luku for filling my life with books, humour and wonderful friendships. Lastly, my parents, who have reminded me time and again that hard work and perseverance never go out of fashion. Thank you!
