Acknowledgements

When I made my decision to pursue a research degree, I had a certain awareness of the commitment that was required but could not comprehend the various difficulties that would ensue in the process of the compilation and completion of the years invested in this research project and this has been very rewarding to say the least. This is a chapter of my life which has its fair share of excitement, failure, boredom, anxiety and most importantly a great deal of learning.

I have met different kinds of people throughout this journey of mine that have enhanced both my academic and life experiences. I have made great friends, supportive colleagues, and resourceful fellow research competitors from not just my department in Tezpur University but the various places that I could access in the course of this research. There was not one instant from which I could not learn something.

I have met some of the kindest people at the Department of Mass Communication and Journalism at Tezpur University. I will fall short of appreciating my experience in the Department if I do not acknowledge that my worldview was challenged in a very positive way and I am extremely grateful for the endless support I received from all the people who have had a role in shaping my thoughts. The list is long and cumbersome and yet I cannot miss out the contribution of any of them.

Firstly, I owe utmost gratitude to my faculty advisor at Pondicherry University, while I was pursuing my Master's degree, Dr. Shuaib Muhammed Haneef. He had supervised my Masters' dissertation and, in the process, inculcated research temperament and curiosity that I carry to this day. At Tezpur University, I must acknowledge the contributions of my supervisor, Prof. Uttam Kumar Pegu, who is currently with Rajiv Gandhi University as Professor in the Department of Mass Communication who has been instrumental in shaping my research. At every stage of my research, he has provided me with moral and academic support to face the challenges that I have had to come across in the course of this study. My local supervisor, Prof. Abhijit Bora, who is the current head of the Department of Mass Communication and Journalism at Tezpur University, has been a constant source of encouragement throughout my research journey and I am thankful for all the support I have received from him on both professional and personal fronts.

With the crude idea that I had come with to the department, I am very thankful to Prof. Sunil Kanta Behera would put in immense effort to actively listen to problems of all researchers including mine. The commitment of Prof. Behera to field of research, at his age was just remarkable and something that we, the early-stage researchers must learn from. Dr. P. Anbarasan, who was an Associate Professor in the Department of Mass Communication and Journalism at Tezpur University was another such person whom we lost very early. His ethical foundations and professional conduct were aspects that every researcher ought to inculcate. He would, from time to time, patiently listen to various problems in my research and make sensible contributions wherever there was scope for improvement. Prof. Behera and Dr. Anbarasan are no longer with us but their teachings live with us.

I would also like to place, on record, my gratitude to Prof. Joya Chakrabarty who helped me streamline my research questions and has made numerous contributions to my study. I also thank all other faculty members in the Department of Mass Communication and Journalism at Tezpur University who have made contributions to my research.

I also thank some of my friends who have made major contributions to my research by supporting my overall holistic growth in developing a research temperament. Here I would like to mention the name of Mr. Anup Kumar Sinha, it was in a discussion with him that the idea of my research was conceived. Dr. Kuldeep Siwach, is another name that cannot be missed here, who was my colleague at Lovely Professional University and had taught me a lot about research methodology, during our evening walks.

Furthermore, I would like to also thank my fellow research scholars in my department and other departments for their empathetic considerations and encouragement in the various stages of my study. I would like to, here, specially mention Vansanglura, Richa Chattapadhyay, Bibal Joy Reang, Shivam Kakoti, Saket Kumar Bhardwaj, Debashish Pratim Sarma who were directly involved in nourishing the quality of my research in more ways than one. They were my support system during my research journey from whom I have learned so many things.

I would also like to thank the university administration and our hostel staff who were very helpful in providing the infrastructure to pursue my research goals seamlessly. I am extremely grateful to our cooks in the mess who work tirelessly every day for the timely service of food to the boarders and the cleaning staff who keep our hostel premises clean and hygienic. One might not realise but their effort reduces ours, giving us more time to invest in our work. As a recipient of funds from the University Grants commission, I would also like to thank them. The funds were essential for accomplishing the objectives of my research.

Last but not the least, I would also like to thank my family members who have been patiently and constantly supporting me so that I am able to accomplish my goals. I am extremely thankful to my father, who I lost recently. He had been a source of constant encouragement and had my best interests in mind. He is greatly missed. I would also like to thank my mother who consistently encouraging me to pursue my goals.
