

ABSTRACT

In this project, an inexpensive N-containing basic polymer (P4VP) is used as catalyst for the synthesis of nitroaldol products from aromatic aldehydes and nitroalkane in an eco-friendly procedure taking water as a reaction medium at room temperature under heterogeneous condition. Catalyst recycling study has been considered as important factor in order to show this methodology as a valuable synthetic approach.