

CONTENT

CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION	1-8
1.1 Background
1.2 Rationale
1.3 Conceptual framework
1.4 Statement of the problem
1.5 Objectives and Research Questions
1.6 Universe of study
1.7 Sampling
1.8 Methodology
CHAPTER 2: LOCATING THE STUDY IN LITERATURE	9-13
2.1 National Health Policy
2.2 Medical Pluralism in Indian context
2.3 Health in relation to socio-economic dimension and gender
CHAPTER 3: LOCATING THE STUDY IN EMPIRICAL CONTEXT	14-21
3.1 Health scenario of Sonitpur
3.2 Village profile
3.3 Social structure of Amolapaam
3.4 Availability of health care services
3.5 Access to health care services

3.5.1 People's preference

3.5.2 Disease specific preferences

3.6 Alternative medical practices

CHAPTER 4: INTERSECTION OF CLASS, COMMUNITY AND GENDER 22-25

IN ACCESS TO HEALTH

4.1 Health care and class dynamics

4.2 Health care and community dynamics

4.3 Women's health

CHAPTER 5: CONCLUSION AND SCOPE FOR FURTHER RESEARCH 26-28

5.1 Conclusion

5.2 Limitations and Further Scope

BIBLIOGRAPHY 29-30

GLOSSARY

Agarwaati	Incense stick
Adivasi	Tea-tribe of Assam
Bhumiraj	A medicinal herb use for treating jaundice
Gaonliya dorob	Indigenous medicine used by village folks
Manimuni	A medicinal herb used for treating problems related to stomach
Mata aayi hai	Refers to the onset of chickenpox
Miya manu	Local term for Bengali-Muslims, sometimes used in a derogatory sense
Neem	A medicinal plant used for treating chickenpox
Paan-tamul	Betel leaves and betel nuts, a common condiment also used to offer hospitality